ABOUT SPANISH NETWORK OF JEWISH QUARTER - SEFARAD ROUTES

This is a network defined by the union of a varied range of towns and cities, with different personalities, but with a common aim: to foster the sensibility towards our Jewish heritage.

There is no doubt about this common interest or about the respect and the values imbued in the determination to continue in this field.

Our people neither forget their past, nor all those people who contributed to the beauty of our cities as they are today.

But then it has been a priority for all the city councils to protect, preserve and promote the Jewish past.

We are ready for you to discover a world in Sefarad!

In our tours across the world we discover ancient cities, picturesque towns, creeks and rivers, mountain ridges, and all of a sudden - hold and behold - the Jewish factor appears...

We have great respect for the Jewish factor, which is becoming an ever growing central aspect of our tours.

Those are the places where our ancestors lived; our culture took form; and our roots stem from.

You are invited to visit those places in person, and meet the Jewish descendants or the different people who are responsible for the renewal of the Jewish experience.

STUDENTS IN SEPHARAD

The program "Sepharad in the Wake of Jewish Legacy" is also adjusted to students. The program offers students and young people in general a formative onsite life experience.

Students and youngsters enjoy experiential visits to cities such as Toledo, Córdoba, Segovia, Madrid and more, along with educational activities, musical workshops and moving encounters with fascinating people, while - at the same time - discover by themselves the richness of the cultural and philosophical treasures that the great Sephardic Jewry bequeathed to the Jewish people in particular and to the world in general, both then and now.

SPAIN IN THE WAKE OF JEWISH LEGACY

For 1500 years, Spain (Sefarad) was home to the Jews.

We shall together embark on a journey to discover their legacy. We'll visit sites, meet people, and get acquainted with poetry and dance from the perspective of today's Spain, its scenery and its reality.

Our journey takes us from Castile, through Extremadura all the way down to Andalucía, focusing in modern and ancient Spain while continuously interweaving the Jewish theme.

Our Spain Jewish Tours will allow you to see how the Jews lived and flourished, their celebrations, the foods they ate and the clothes they wore as well as the music that was distinctly theirs. From Barcelona to Girona and Toledo to Cordoba, the Jewish customs and history can be seen up close through the fascinating synagogues and the Jewish “Barrios” where communities lived, practiced their religion and did commerce. Some of the most prominent and important Jewish leaders were the right hand men of the Kings who ruled Spain all the way up until their expulsion in 1492. Consider one of our Spain Jewish tours with a knowledgeable licensed guide who will paint an interesting and realistic picture of the Jews as well as the important influence they played on the development of Spain over the centuries.

SPAIN JEWISH HERITAGE TOUR

Our 9 day Spain Jewish Tour will provide an insight to the Sephardic Jew’s story, journey, and their final heartbreak between conversion of faith or fleeing the country. We will visit the most influential cities where the Jewish populations grew to a strong community, worked and practiced their faith, sometimes, undercover, and other times openly, depending on who was ruling at the time. They were scholars, doctors and philosophers who had tremendous influence on the shaping of Spain and its history.

TOLEDO JEWISH TOUR

Toledo offers an inside look at the important legacy the Jews left before their expulsion from Spain in 1492. Join us on our Toledo Jewish Tour in this rare opportunity with our expert local guide trained in Jewish History to trace the long lineage of traditions, customs, influential people, and religion in this magical city regarded as one of the most important in preserving the jewels of the Sephardic memory and legacy.

CORDOBA JEWISH TOUR

Our local guide will take you back in time, narrating a historical timeline of the local life, customs and worship of the Jews living in Cordoba from the 11th and 12th centuries. You will earn an appreciation of how the Jews flourished and prospered with protection from the Moorish rulers who practiced religious tolerance among all three cultures living side by side at the time. Declared a World Heritage Site by UNESCO in 1984, the Jewish Qt. is one of the largest in Europe.

SEVILLA JEWISH TOUR

Let us introduce our Seville Jewish Tour. While there are many cities throughout Spain that represent an importance for the Jewish past that once flourished in the land of Iberia, Seville still holds illustrations of this, scattered throughout the former Jewish Quarter, Barrio de Santa Cruz. Narrow, winding, cobblestone streets, pave the intricate neighborhoods of the former Jewish communities. The ancient walls whisper the stories of their past and your guide will unfold the interesting legends and their history.

LUCENA JEWISH TOUR

Referred to as The Pearl of Sefarad, Lucena is one of the oldest and most important Jewish communities in Sephardic Spain that, during the early times, was inhabited almost exclusively by Jews. Our guide will explain the reasons why this city was so prominent, even for the Kings and Sultans who ruled Spain, its origins of existence, and some of the legendary figures whose influence will not be forgotten in the Jewish history. As a refuge and a promised land, the Sephardic people viewed this city as sacred. The famous Jewish cemetery and relics scattered about, will remind you of their important heritage.

YEARNING FOR SEPHARAD

The Jewish presence in Sepharad, the Hebrew name for Spain, was written over a period of no less than 1.500 years. The Sephardim are the descendants of the Spanish-Portuguese Jews who lived in this region until 1492, when the Catholic Kings decreed their expulsion. After this dramatic event, the Sephardim retained their Judeo-Spanish language, Ladino, the customs of "Espania", but more than anything, the love for their old home (the second after Israel). It is said that some families still keep the keys to the homes of their ancestors who were once forced to leave Toledo, Seville and Cordoba. Many things were lost forever after the expulsion, but many others have remained. Without the Sephardic culture, the whole of Western history would be different. Sepharad reminds us of the time when men and women lived together while practicing different religions (Jewish, Christian and Muslim), thus, setting an example of goodwill and harmony for the world.

UNESCO WORLD HERITAGE SITES IN CENTRAL SPAIN

When Alfonso VI conquered Toledo in 1085, the Christians were able to begin to organize what would be at the end of the Middle Ages the heart of a vast empire.

The entire area between the Duero and Tajo Rivers would be filled with cities inhabited by proud nobles, an authoritative church and bellicose kings ever more powerful. We will see their origins, their splendor and their projection towards America.

These and their excellent state of preservation allow us to find five historical districts along this route that have earned the designation of World Heritage sites: Toledo, Cáceres, Salamanca, Ávila and Segovia.

ANDALUSIA: ART, LANDSCAPE AND PEOPLE

Many are the peoples, religions and cultures that since prehistoric times have arrived from the Mediterranean to the south of Spain.

Important reminders of the Carthaginians, the Romans, and the Hebrews still remain, but what will most draw our attention are the remnants of the Arab civilization, its great capitals, magnificent monuments and the respect they enjoyed during more than five centuries, as well as the influence they bore on the Christian culture.

Only in this way can we explain the villages, the art, the society and the landscape of modern day Andalusia.

ANDALUSIA - BARCELONA - MADRID & CASTILE

Spain (Sefarad) is the country that the Jews felt like more of their own, to make it fully theirs. We can ensure that a very important part of our being of Spanish origins is Jewish. The Spanish Jewish communities are in cities that we were linked forever to the Jewish history. The Jewish culture is the transmission of knowledge's and the creation of scientific works in Spanish culture. Nowadays, the Sephardim, that is to say the descendants of Spanish Jews deported by the five continents, have maintained the Spanish language as a vehicle for expression of their culture.

ANDALUSIA

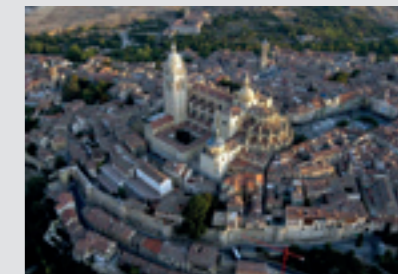

The fascination of Andalucía springs from its peculiar history, Christianity and Islam. For centuries the region stood on the porous frontier between two different faiths and ideologies. Left to slowly ferment like a barrel of the bone-dry local sherry, these sometimes peaceful, sometimes battling kingdoms threw up a slew of esoteric cultural colossi: ancient mosques masquerading as churches, vast palace complexes strafed with stucco, a passionate musical genre bizarrely called flamenco, and a chain of lofty white towns that still dominates the arid, craggy landscape. This visually and viscerally compelling legacy can be found all over the region in places such as Córdoba's Mezquita, Jerez' music venues and the hilltop settlements of Cádiz province.

BARCELONA

From metropolitan Barcelona spreads a land of such diversity that, although its furthest-flung corner is no more than 200km away, you could spend weeks dissecting it and still feel you'd barely begun. The Costa Brava, blighted by dreary pockets of mass tourism, still boasts much of the wild beauty that first drew visitors here.

MADRID & CASTILE

Some of Spain's most beautiful cities are here, rising up from the lonely plains of the country's central plateau with dazzling architecture that provides the backdrop to night-time carousing of the highest order. The region's crowning glory is Toledo, Spain's spiritual capital and an open-air museum of medieval buildings and cultural sights
